Damage Estimated At Over $2 Million

2 Killed, 41 Hurt In Reno Explosion

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Propane-air gas exploded after leaking from mains in downtown Reno Tuesday and destroyed five business buildings.

Two persons were killed in the series of three blasts and 41 were injured.

The Washoe County sheriff's office said today that five previously unaccounted for persons had been found.

Damage along Sierra Street was estimated in excess of two million dollars.

Because of the great amounts of rubble to be cleared away and dangerous walls and overhanging beams which needed to be knocked down, disaster crews could not search the wreckage until today.

But for a clothing store employee's quick reaction when he smelled gas, said Fire Chief Karl Evans, the death toll "could have been a hundred."

Evans and other officials still sought the cause and place of the leak which freed the propane-air gas into at least three buildings in which it exploded. The gas is heavier than air and tends to settle to the lowest possible point when it escapes. There may have been three such pockets.

The first of the series of blasts occurred at 1:03 p.m., minutes after an employee in the Paterson man's clothing store reported smelling gas in the basement.

A crew of trouble shooters from the Sierra Pacific Power Co. and a Fire Department rescue squad were rushed to the scene. They evacuated nearly every one from the five buildings before the fires started.

Major credit was given to Orville Owen, power company trouble shooter who sensed the danger. He warned all in the Paterson store, then rushed along the street warning people to "get out."

The firemen arrived as the first blast went off. They evacuated those in the Gray Reid department store, Reno's largest, and the Elks Club, both on the east side of Sierra Street.

Neither of those known killed was inside the buildings. Mrs. John DuPrat, about 60, socially prominent wife of a retired grocer, was struck by falling debris. Frank Spina, 48, owner of a shoe

Ike Warns Of Inflation Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the government will have to move in with some form of inflation controls if business and labor fail to deal with the problem adequately on a voluntary basis.

The President, at a news conference, did not specify what type of controls he may have in mind.

Eisenhower also said that he believes Israel has a decent respect for mankind and will comply with United Nations demands that it withdraw its troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

As for whether the United States would go along if there is a U. N. call for economic sanctions against Israel, Eisenhower made no direct reply to a question on that point. But he did say the United States is committed to support the U. N.

Israel so far has refused to comply with U. N. demands that it withdraw its forces from all of Egypt.

On the matter of inflation, Eisenhower was reminded that in his January State of the Union message he called on both business and labor leaders to cooperate in a voluntary drive to check spiraling prices.

Today, Eisenhower said that when he brought up that point in his message he had in mind the long-term best interest of every one concerned.

He went on to say that if there is no adequate voluntary effort, and inflation continues, the government would have to move in with some kind of controls.

Utility Offers To Buy Street Lighting System

Would Pay $32,188; Annual Charge Then Would Be $22,924

The Ohio Edison Company's proposal to purchase the city's overhead street lighting system and furnish the municipality with a "modern street lighting system" was re-introduced in City Council when the councilmen met Tuesday night at City Hall.

Ohio Edison proposes to buy the city's present system for $32,188 and then provide a more modern system of overhead lighting at an annual cost to the city of $22,924.

Council referred the proposal to the finance committee for study.

Glenn Harding, district manager of Ohio Edison, submitted his proposition to council originally last May but Council at that time withheld discussion on the letter until settlement of the recent gas rate increase with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. was completed. Council agreed Dec. 18 to an average gas rate increase per year of 23.7 per cent to run for three years.

Last May the Ohio Edison letter had been directed to the streets, alleys, sidewalks, and lighting committee for study along with attached model ordinances and contracts for the sale of the city's lighting system. The streets committee then decided to withhold action until after the gas settlement.

The purchase price was established by an inventory of the system taken Jan. 1, 1956. The proposal also stated that any additional facilities installed since that date would be added to the price.

The utility proposed to furnish, operate, and maintain a lighting system with the total output of 238,000 candle power which would cost Salem $1,910.35 monthly. The system would contain 767 lamps ranging from 250 to 1900 candlepower. The rental fee is on a per-lamp-per-year basis.

According to the model contract presented last May, Council will determine the location and size of the street lights. The city may order a change in location of the lamps, the costs to be paid to the city.

Ohio Edison would furnish, operate and maintain additional equipment on the order of the city, provided no extension would be required when the cost of such an extension would be unreasonable to the annual revenue from it, according to the proposal.

During 1955 the city paid a total of $19,317.33 to operate its municipally owned lighting system, according to City Auditor Helen R. Coyne. Of the total, $6,770.57 was for current, $6,171.57 for material and supplies and $6,375.19 for labor.

Chairman Arthur Hanna and the streets committee will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber to discuss the lighting system.

Driver Hurt When Car Goes Over Bank

Joseph W. Hinkle, 70, of RD 3, Salem, received lacerations of the chin and lip and abrasions of the nose and forehead Tuesday when he was involved in an accident on County Road 440, one mile east of Columbiana, at 10 a.m.

State Patrolmen said Hinkle's car knocked over a stop sign at the intersection of County Road 440 and Rt. 14, then went through a dead end and rolled over a 50-foot embankment. He was treated at the Salem Central Clinic and was cited for reckless operation.

Pinball Machine Owner Faces Charge

Orville Small, 42, of 1290 W. 10th St. will receive a hearing before Mayor Dean B. Cranmer tonight on a charge of grand larceny.

Small was arrested Jan. 28 by police after the charge was filed against him by Peter Chakos of Youngstown.

Chakos claimed that after he installed a pinball machine at the D-V Inn at 175 N. Ellsworth Ave., Small removed it and replaced it with one of his own. Chakos said his marbleboard was valued at $300.

Soviet Budget To Show Surplus

Defense Expenditures Trimmed Slightly

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government announced Tuesday it would collect 614,800,000,000 rubles and spend 603,800,000,000 rubles in 1957. Finance Minister A. G. Zverev made this announcement in a budget speech to the joint session of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament.

The Russians value the ruble at a quarter of a dollar.

The budget provides 96,700,000,000 rubles for direct defense expenditures in 1957, a reduction from last year's allocation of 102,500,000,000 but only slightly below the actual defense outlay of 97,800,000,000 in 1956, Zverev said.

(By Russian calculation, the 1957 defense budget amounts to $24,175,000,000. In the United States, a $38 billion dollar military budget is before Congress. A comparison is difficult because the Russians do not list many indirect expenses incurred on behalf of their armed forces.)

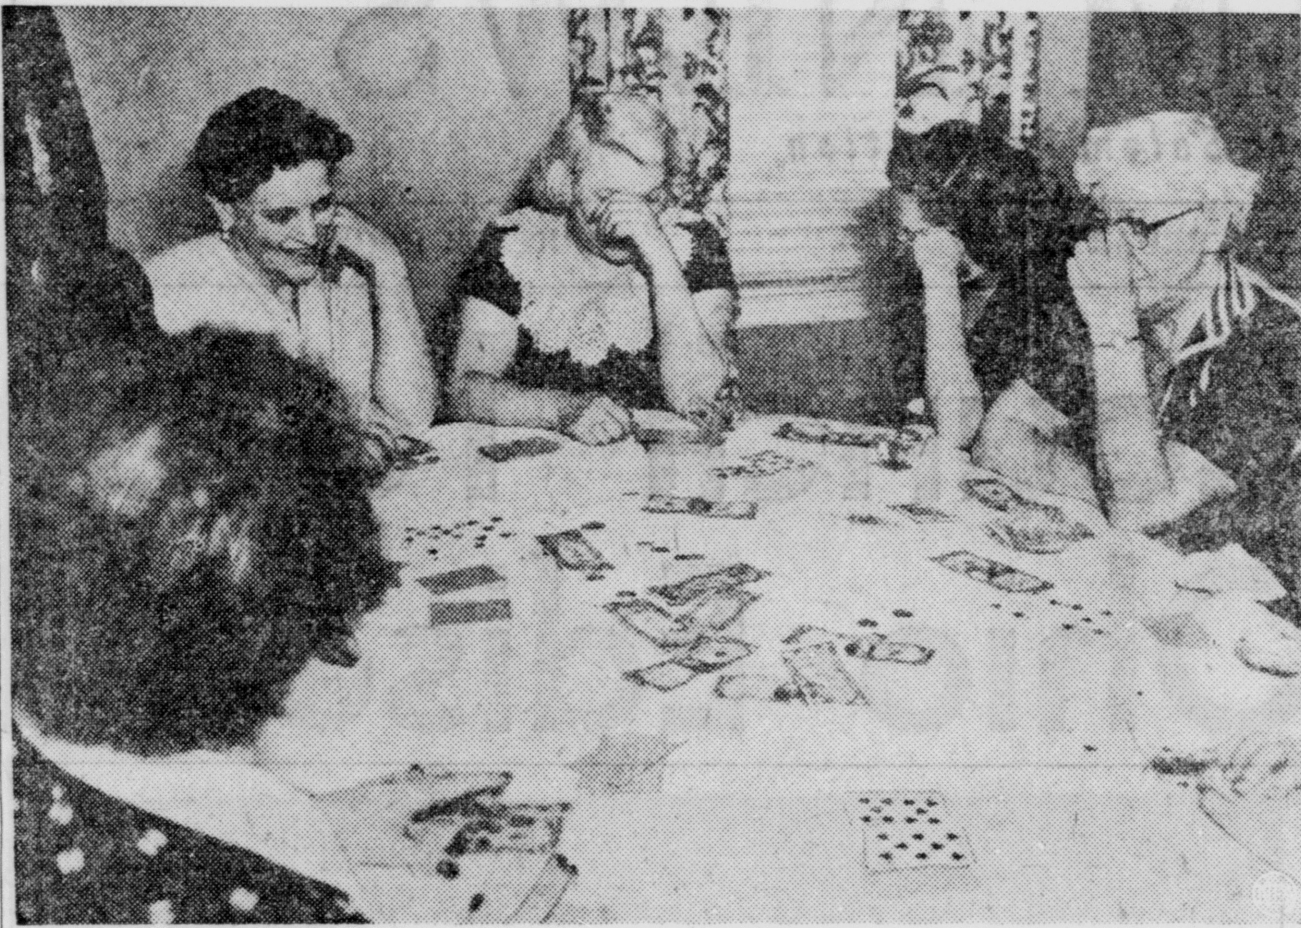

Zverev told deputies of the Supreme Soviet the reduced expenditures for defense "represent the Soviet Union's desire to reduce its armed forces."

The budget as a whole exceeds that of last year, which provided for income of 592,761,000,000 rubles and estimated total expenditures at $69,635,000,000.

A sharp cut in the rate of Russia's industrial growth this year was indicated by Soviet economic boss Mikhail G. Pervukhin.

He promised the Supreme Soviet the increase in economic output would be 7.1 per cent over that of 1956. The increase last year over 1955 was 11 per cent.

All 11 top members of the Soviet Communist party hierarchy showed up at the opening of Parliament.

Medical Society Opposes Free Inoculations In Canton Schools

By The Associated Press

There will be no free mass polio inoculation program for school children at Canton unless the Stark County Medical Society changes its stand on the matter.

In at least two other large Ohio cities, free shots are administered with vaccine supplied by the federal government in programs conducted by public health officials with the cooperation of doctors.

And the council of the Ohio State Medical Assn. has urged that every person under 40 years of age be immunized against polio.

The Canton school board has decided to go along with the medical society, which decided last week that free mass inoculation in the schools was not advisable at this time. The society urged every person to get the shots at his doctor's office and promised free inoculation for persons one to 19 years old, and all pregnant women, who are unable to pay.

The Canton board said it favors free shots and is willing to provide the facilities if the medical society changes its stand, but John Baker, board president, explained, "It is not our intention to override the medical association."

Toledo Health Commissioner Walter Hartung Sr., said Tuesday night that more than 38,000 children in that city had been given free inoculation in the last two years in a program conducted by the health department with the cooperation of the schools, nursing associations and doctors. Vaccine supplied by the federal government is used in giving shots to those up to 19 years of age, he said.

Health Commissioner Carl Wilzbach of Cincinnati said free vaccine is administered to children 19 and under and to pregnant women through the public health department. He said doctors give free shots to those who cannot afford to pay, but charge those who can afford it.

Dr. Wilzbach said that while no school inoculation program is under way in Cincinnati, public health centers have been giving shots since the Salk vaccine became available. He said 1,500 shots were given last week and that the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine plans to enlarge the scope of the program.

Plans are under way to give free shots to all school children in Cleveland.

The state medical association council said in Columbus Tuesday that the Salk vaccine "is considered both safe and effective in preventing paralytic polio" and is "now available to everyone."

County medical societies were urged by the council to continue the statewide educational campaign designed to "stimulate renewed interest on the part of the people of Ohio in immunization against polio."

Gasoline Price Increase Held Not Justified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said today a rise in gasoline prices which followed U.S. oil shipments to Europe "does not seem to be justified."

"We were told that some major producers are swimming in gasoline," he told newsmen in advance of the second day of public hearings by senators from three investigating groups. O'Mahoney is presiding over the hearings.

O'Mahoney said spokesmen for 15 major oil corporations — now participating in a voluntary pool that supplies emergency oil products to Europe — would be heard later.

Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization who approved the emergency oil lift, Tuesday testified that the voluntary program was the best plan and had done a fairly good job of supply Europe.

But he protested Europe needed more crude and fuel oil and less gasoline. He criticized an increase of tanker shipments to this country of Venezuelan oil, saying it should have gone to Europe.

Flemming said the Suez Canal and Iraq pipelines, closing of which late last year cut off vital European oil supplies, may be opened "much sooner than we had hoped," possibly by March 1 to 15. He quickly added that "political issues" outside his knowledge were involved.

He said his agency now has no powers to control prices of gasoline, fuel oil or other products and he could not comment upon price increases.

As an ordinary citizen, he said "it would be very helpful" for the Senate investigators to get some facts.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

High Blood Pressure

Mrs. M. asks whether there are different types of high blood pressure; whether the rice diet is beneficial and what quantity of rice should be taken.

In answer to the first question, it can be said that there are several kinds of high blood pressure, or hypertension. In some of them the cause can be identified and perhaps corrected; in others, particularly the kind known as essential hypertension, the cause or causes are still uncertain.

Besides there being a difference in high blood pressure based on the cause, there is also a great deal of difference in the degree to which the blood pressure is raised and in the symptoms present and the outlook. In other words, there are many people with some increase in blood pressure who have few, if any, symptoms and who live for a long time without developing any.

The question of the rice diet cannot be answered simply but it can be said that the quantity of rice to take should be determined by the physician in charge on the basis of the individual patient. Furthermore, there are now many other treatments besides the rice diet for a person with high blood pressure. The selection of which method is best for a particular person must be made with care.

It is true that one of the treatments of high blood pressure is by diet. It was shown about the beginning of this century that a diet which contained small amounts of salt was helpful in many cases of high blood pressure. Progress in this direction was slow for many years but recently research workers have made additional studies on the effect of diet in both animals and people.

One group of workers has found that the blood pressure of rats with experimentally produced hypertension could be lowered when they were given diets which were low in one part of salt. (The chemical name for salt is sodium chloride and the portion which they took out was the sodium.) They tried this treatment also in a small group of patients and found that the blood pressure was lowered in several.

Another group of investigators, also using experimental animals, found that a diet low in protein (meat, eggs, fish and the like) and low in sodium would prevent the high blood pressure which took place in these animals if they were not given this special diet.

Such studies as these may explain the good results which have been reported for some of the special diets for high blood pressure, including the rice diet. It seems likely that when there are good results from such special diets it may be because of the low amounts of protein and sodium which they contain.

The victim of high blood pressure cannot expect too much from diet treatments alone. Nevertheless, work on this problem is going forward constantly and probably the future will bring forth dietary treatments for hypertension even better than those which are known today.

But as mentioned earlier there are other treatments, including drugs and surgery, which have to be considered.

Attorneys To Appeal Mohrhaus Conviction

CINCINNATI (AP) — Attorneys for Robert V. Mohrhaus say they will appeal his conviction for first degree murder in the beating death of an elderly neighbor.

A criminal court jury was closed less than two hours Tuesday before reaching its decision without recommending mercy.

Without a mercy recommendation, a first-degree murder conviction carries a mandatory death penalty.

Mohrhaus, 22, was accused of beating to death Mrs. Leona McCrooklin, 71, after she surprised him in her apartment last June 30.

Hair-Curling

Herbert Hoover's quip that he once had his hair curled by an economic collapse and sees fresh signs of danger makes those of us who bear the scars of the Great Depression wince.

But invoking hair-curling memories of yesterday will not help Congress accept Treasury Secretary Humphrey's invitation to cut an administrative budget which already totals $72 billion at rock-bottom estimates.

High-level wisdom and exhortation may have some effect on private decisions about new price boosts and wage hikes. But federal budget-making is not private; it is public.

Because it is public, the budget total probably will be more, not less when Congress finishes its work. For every cut congressional savers will make, congressional spenders will make equal or greater additions.

Moreover, while advocates of budget cutting are making headlines with speeches and interviews, advocates of spending will be making headway with a point of view that the federal budget has been growing too slowly to keep pace with the growth of the nation.

Those who hold this point of view deny there is danger of inflation in a budget designed to take enough in taxes to offset more than $72 in spending.

They contend there is danger of deflation and economic distress in a budget that does not keep abreast of their estimates of a growing economy's budget needs. They do not look upon government spending as a necessary evil but as the pace-setter for economic progress.

Moreover, they look upon congressmen who talk about cutting the budget as hypocrites and lint-heads, because they will bet the same congressmen will vote to add more budget costs than they will vote to subtract before the session is over.

That is the issue as it shapes up in Congress. It was typified by Ohio Sen. Lausche's maiden speech in the Senate.

He was protesting against a proposal to pay $25,000 a year to former presidents of the United States.

The Senate chamber was almost empty. The proposed expenditure Sen. Lausche was opposing already had been passed and sent to the House.

The issue had been settled before Ohio's new senator even got up to speak about it.

Fool-Proof Election Reform

Before any more congressmen get their names in the papers by announcing plans to reform federal election laws, it should be made known that Sen. Hennings of Missouri already has announced the only plan worth a rubber check made out to the chairman of the losing side.

He did this in 1955, hoping to get something started before the presidential campaign last year. But he was unable to get anywhere for the reason that his plan put responsibility for high-wide and handsome spending where it belonged—on office-seekers.

This is not where the professional politicians want responsibility to be. They want it to be put on contributors, so they can duck responsibility in case there is an investigation. They also figure that in the event of trouble they can view with alarm all the "shady characters" who spend too much on their opponent's campaign.

The Hennings plan works like this: Candidates for federal offices would be permitted to spend so many cents times the vote in a preceding election for the same office. Responsibility would rest entirely on the candidate.

There would be more pious horseplay in which a candidate would pretend he did not know that 10 times as much money was spent, in his behalf backstage than was forked over the footlights in view of the audience.

No other election reform would be worth the effort to find the loopholes in it.

'Together We Stand'

One statistic about Boy Scouts of America, new celebrating their 47th anniversary, stands out above the rest.

There are 3,300,000 boys in the various phases of Scouting. They are being guided by 1,200,000 men, all volunteers, except 3,157 who are full-time executives of the Boy Scout organization.

This is the secret of one of the soundest of all ideas for giving American boys a character foundation—that it also furnished a character foundation for all the men who help them. The boys and the men are dependent on each other; both are the beneficiaries of the same movement. That is what keeps it going.

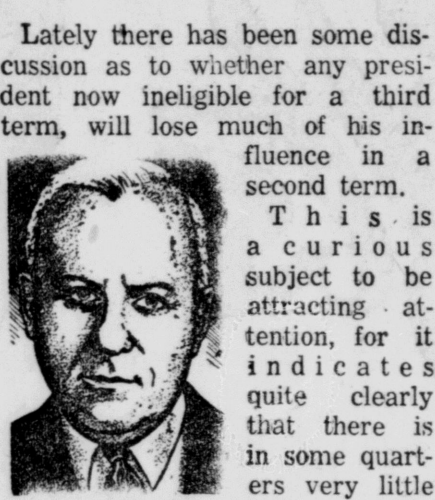

The actual anniversary of the Boy Scout movement is on Friday. The celebration, however, will last from this Wednesday to next Wednesday, with special emphasis on next Sunday, when the Scouts and their leaders will acknowledge their shared debt to religion, which is the basis of all character-building anytime, anywhere.

A nice, big, pleasant smile always adds to anybody's face value.

Might Makes Right

Country Will Back President That It Trusts

Lately there has been some discussion as to whether any president now ineligible for a third term, will lose much of his influence in a second term.

This is a curious subject to be attracting attention, for it indicates quite clearly that there is in some quarters very little reading now—especially as it concerns what used to happen at the White House before FDR ignored the two-term tradition and permitted himself to be a candidate for four terms.

This correspondent happened to be looking up a quotation a few days ago in a book of lectures delivered by Woodrow Wilson in 1907. It was published about five years before the then president of Princeton University became President of the United States.

The chapter on the presidency of the United States might have been written yesterday. It shows that some so-called "novelties" of today are not novelties at all.

Lately, for instance, much has been written about Dwight Eisenhower not being a politically trained individual and as being "stronger than his party"—as if this were something unusual.

MR. WILSON, a scholar who has written extensively on the American constitutional system before he entered public life, put it this way in 1907 as he sized up the trend revealed by political developments of the past:

"What the country will demand of the candidate will be, not that he be an astute politician, skilled and practiced in affairs but that he be a man such as it can trust, in character, in intention, in knowledge of its needs, in perception of the best means by which those needs may be met, in capacity to prevail by reason of his own weight and integrity."

"Sometimes the country believes in a party but more often it believes in a man; and conventions have often shown the instinct to perceive which it is that the country needs in a particular presidential year, a mere representative partisan, a military hero or someone who will genuinely speak for the country itself, whatever be his training and antecedents."

"It is with the instinctive feeling that it is upon occasion such a man that the country wants that nominating conventions will often nominate men who are not their acknowledged leaders but only such men as the country would like to see lead both its parties."

MR. EISENHOWER is, of course, a man who might have led either party—in fact, in 1948 and again in 1951 there was much talk of selecting him as the candidate of the Democratic party.

But Mr. Wilson's main point is still valid—a president leads by virtue of his hold on public opinion. The prospect of being nominated for a third term was never necessary as a means of continuing a president's leadership.

Actually, a president who has the courage of his convictions maintains power up to the very day his successor is inaugurated. For if he speak his views and the country agrees with them, he puts a damper on the views of those who do not reflect the true course of public opinion.

A president can make many appointments to office, even in his second term and exercise illicit influence in dispensing favors, but this kind of thing—dependence on "patronage"—has today become obsolete as a means of winning votes in Congress on major issues.

When President Eisenhower said the other day that, even if the amendment making him ineligible for a third term were repealed, he wouldn't run, he really increased his strength with the country—he didn't diminish it.

EVERYBODY KNOWS that Mr. Eisenhower has had plenty of honors and seeks no further office that the nation can give him. A disinterested leader will attract a bigger following than any legislator ambitiously seeking higher office.

The same situation occurred during Theodore Roosevelt's second term. He had announced ahead of time that he wouldn't run for a third term. He did more to influence the policies of Congress than any Republican president in a half-century. And he finally picked his own successor—William Howard Taft.

The Republican party did what "TR" asked it to do when it nominated Mr. Taft.

Any president who is right on the issues that face the country can make Congress toe the mark—because it's difficult to buck a president of the United States when he carries his case to the country and happens to be right.

The vote of 355 to 61 a week ago in the House of Representatives supporting the "Eisenhower Doctrine" offers a good yardstick by which to measure presidential influence in a second term.

Reds Renew Cold War

By ERIC DOWNTON

A marked drop in the international temperature and renewal of the cold war are forecast by western diplomats as the eleventh session of the U.N. General Assembly nears its end.

In the months following this session—the most embittered ever in the factious history of this international "parliament"—snarls are expected to replace many of the smiles which over the past year have been worn by the Communists as part of their diplomatic attire.

The Kremlin will probably revert to sabre-rattling and toughness. This will be accompanied by propaganda asserting that the U.S. and its allies have rebuffed Soviet "peace moves" and disarmament suggestions.

As part of a revived war of nerves the West can be prepared to hear a good deal more about Russian nuclear weapons tests and development of intercontinental rockets and guided missiles.

SOVIET ACTIVITY in the Middle East will be increased as a direct challenge to the "Eisenhower Doctrine" for that region. Turkey and Persia, U.N. sources believe, will be victims of fresh Moscow pressures.

Ostentatious strengthening of the Warsaw Pact—the Communist military alliance produced as a propaganda reply to NATO—has already started. Satellite troops will be goose-stepping loudly in East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland and other countries where the Red Army rules.

Latin American delegates at U.N. are expecting stepped-up Communist activity in Central and South America.

Nationalist Chinese representatives here allege Peiping is moving to inflame old trouble spots in Asia.

WESTERN DIPLOMATS and newspapermen over the past few weeks have encountered a definite tightening in the granting of visas and permits for entry into and travel within red-ruled areas. Police supervision of foreigners in Communist countries has been more marked, after a long period of relaxation.

Bonn government officials report indications that the Russians seem ready to turn the screws on West Berlin again.

Apparently the Soviet leaders were encouraged to make this latest switch in the zig-zagging course of their foreign policy tactics at the recent Sino-Russian conferences while Chou En-lai, premier of Red China, was in Moscow.

The Chinese Communists have always been fast and ruthless in applying the bullet to the back of the head when psychological warfare failed to gain their ends.

Chou En-lai, according to U.N. reports, minimized the adverse Asian reactions to the Hungarian uprising and counseled a get-tough policy.

BOTH MOSCOW and Peiping are believed to be reasonably satisfied with recent economic progress in the U.S.S.R. and China. Thus they are not confronting fundamental domestic economic problems of the urgency now faced by Britain for example.

Adding up such factors, western diplomats, thankfully awaiting the close to this trouble-loaded session of the U.N. General Assembly, are resigned to a definite overall increase in international tensions for months ahead, even though the immediate crisis of Suez and Hungary have been partially smothered.

Inflation: Depression Breeder

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Inflation—including inflated taxes—is cited as a depression breeder by one who ought to know. Former President Hoover, who had his hair curled once by a depression, sees the foreshadowing of another in the present era of free spending and a rising cost of living—and particularly in the complacency about it.

In the inflation period of the twenties that bred the big bust of 1929 the slogan was: "Never sell America short". Today the slogans are: "The old economic laws are outmoded" and "After all it's only money".

Hoover thinks that the 103 billion dollars a year Americans are paying to be governed at various levels is too much for the economy to bear without danger of overstrain.

Treasury Secretary Humphrey also frets about the tax burden. He says: "The present rates are so high that they will in the long run hamper our economic growth."

By that both men mean that after paying out 103 billion dollars of their individual and business incomes for taxes and other governmental levies, people aren't saving enough to finance the growth of industry needed if 1½ million new jobs are to be found each year, and homes are to be built for the young couples coming along. Which is another way of saying that money is tight.

Times are so good right now that about the only thing to jolt people out of their complacency is the rising cost of living. They take the huge federal debt and the rising state and local governmental debts for granted. The slogan here is: "We just owe it to ourselves."

The former President, calling on his 82-years of hindsight, thinks Americans should wake up and "realize that they cannot have every social and public works improvement of their dreams all at once, especially in a world where we have to defend ourselves from a monstrous international danger."

How to stop the increasing governmental spending seems to baffle many officials. As budget Director Brundage points out, "Nine out of ten letters I receive still ask for something—for the national guard, for the veterans, for dredging channels, for building dams, for the thousand - and - one programs in which our citizens are interested."

The rapidly rising total of debt, as a result, isn't alarming, yet, Secretary Humphrey says, but he thinks "our debts have been going up pretty high and pretty fast."

Hoover contends that the growing inflation movement of the twenties was helped along by federal activities which he protested at the time. And he warns that governmental spending is playing a part in the latest rise in prices.

While he expresses lack of fear at this time "of a serious depression—if we can stop the march of inflation," Hoover points out that "unless inflation is stopped, the end is a bump."

Man In The Middle

By TRUMAN TWILL

If they ever have a contest to name the unsung heroes of the 20th century, my nomination will be foreman.

They should be given miniature first-aid kits in solid uranium as tokens of the blood, sweat and tears they shed while listening to management yip at them with one ear and trying to keep it from getting confused with the yipping of the workers in the other ear.

A foreman is the man in the middle, the fellow who is damned if he does and damned if he doesn't.

My old man was a foreman while I was reaching the age of perception, and it was no trick to perceive he was the buffer between a time-serving front office that had become chair-bound and a working force that was determined not to become muscle-bound.

He got the work out by commanding the workers' respect as a decent man who had forgotten more about hard work than they would ever know; who always tried to show them how they could get their jobs done to their own best advantage with maximum safety and who never took sides against them in his role as their overseer.

He kept the front office happy by getting results under what were known to be adverse conditions and carrying on his broad shoulders responsibilities that had to be placed somewhere because the front office could not bear them. My old man was just a typical foreman, nothing unusual. You find the same kind everywhere. The foreman is the one with the expression of a mother hen on his face, the one who keeps moving from place to place, but not to and from the drinking fountain. He looks as if he might be expecting something to happen. He is.

He is expecting he will have to figure out in a hurry within the next five minutes what the comment and his own working force have not been able to figure out within the last five years—and make it plausible.

He is waiting for the crash, the shriek, the bellow, the ominous silence, or the sudden buzz-buzz of conversation that will challenge his resources as the know-how man.

He is waiting for the front-office summons, the curt directive, the gobbledygooked memo or the casual tipoff that will march him out in front of the firing squad and leave him tied there while management decides whether to use blanks or fire real bullets.

He is keeping one eye peeled for the leader of the faction that has been trying to suck his blood and the other eye cocked at the bellwether of the crowd who think of him as a symbol of their own prestige.

He has one hand ready to pat the backs of those who deserve it and the other poised to fend off the rabbit punches that every foreman comes to think of as part of his daily exercise.

No one ever says, so, but if it were not for the man in the middle there would be no labor-management relations. Labor and management would destroy each other, like Kilkenny cats.

Protests Nursing School Change To The News: As the mother of a student nurse in training at Salem City Hospital School of Nursing, I feel that the sudden announcement of the conversion of the school to a "school of practical nursing" is unjust.

The hospital board sent letters to parents of the girls, "assuring" us that this change would not be a serious interruption of their scholastic careers; that our daughters would be transferred elsewhere.

Last fall, at the time my daughter entered upon her course of studies, I was assured of their dependency. I was reassured of the dependability of the Salem School of Nursing. My complete confidence was utterly despoiled by the board's brief letter acquainting me with the board's decision.

How "assured" do you think these young nursing students feel at this moment? If they had wanted to attend another school don't you suppose they would have applied to one? It wasn't mere chance that they chose the Salem Hospital School of Nursing. They wanted to attend there and worked at odd jobs to help earn money to become a nurse. The Salem school met their specific requirements financially and scholastically. Now it probably will become a hardship for them to be transferred to another nursing school.

I wonder when this change was first contemplated and why the students, parents and others interested were not made aware of the impending move? What has happened to good, old-fashioned ethics?

A good "nurses aide" is indeed a jewel and a "practical school" run in conjunction with a "professional" one would be a worthy accomplishment for any forward-thinking association, but to close a professional school in preference to a practical school is an open admission that to have come to a standstill, I believe. I cannot help feeling apprehensive about this move.

'Kelly Up'

In a world which makes Alice in Wonderland seem orthodox it didn't surprise many folks to hear that a big league ball club, losing their star player, had signed Emmett Kelly famous circus clown. (This simplifies the question, "Who's on first?" It could be Pagliacci. With Scaramouche at the plate.

American is amusement mad. Baseball has become largely show business. With Ringling Brothers playing only indoors this season, it is not sensational to hear that the Brooklyn Bums will now have the outdoor circus.

If the team doesn't get into the world series it will at least get into "Variety" and "Billboard."

CASEY STENGEL was somewhat stunned, as he hasn't a deep bench when it comes to circus clowns. But as of today there is no support for a rumor that he has asked George Weiss to strengthen the Yankees by signing up a trapeze troupe, having the team take the field on elephants and perhaps adding a couple of left-handed pitchers who can throw while standing on their heads.

There would be no advantage in this as the Brooklyn club could counter by trading a couple of utility outfielders for an animal act, having the national anthem played on a steam callopie and announcing that relief pitchers would be shot from the bullpen by cannon.

UP TO NOW BIG-LEAGUE ball clubs have had to depend on their regular lineup and managements for laughs, with occasional co-operation by the umpires and fans.

Clowns are not exactly new to Flatbush but in the old days, when the cap and bells were routine equipment on the diamond and every day was Halloween in the pitcher's box, the management let them perform without makeup or a written release from winter circus quarters.

SERIOUSLY, HOWEVER, box-office experts are sure that Walter O'Mally has done an extra smart thing in signing Kelly, who is one of the greatest entertainers on earth, and will be sure to attract a bigger gate, especially from among women and children. They predict he will draw thousands of males, too, who are not dyed-in-the-wool baseball fanatics but who will go for a blend of sport and show biz. One thing is certain . . . the Bums will not only play Jersey but part of the Ringling outdoor circuit. Kelly can wind up as the first clown to make Cooperstown. (Bat! up! And don't forget to stay for the chariot races.)

PARENTS WORRYING about their sons in school got a laugh out of the Burns and Allen dialogue: "Junior is awfully tired." . . . "That's okay; he can catch up on sleep during his examinations."

And we liked the query from Joe Tansey in the N.Y. Daily News which read: "A mad bomber supposed to be crazy had $500 on him when arrested and $11,000 in the bank. He owns a foreign car, has two women working for him, hasn't had a job since the thirties and kept the whole N.Y. police department looking for him for sixteen years. Please define the word 'crazy' for me."

Miller-Bretz Nuptials Held In Church At Hanoverton

Rev. Ashley Wilson officiated at the double ring ceremony Saturday at 3:30 p.m. when Maxine Miller of Salem and Floyd Bretz of Lisbon exchanged their marriage vows in the Hanoverton Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Fred Kelson, church organist, presided at the console for the nuptial music.

The bride wore a beige linen sheath with matching accessories. Her corsage was of coral glamelias.

Mrs. Virgil Bland of Alliance, a niece of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore aqua faille with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and white hyacinths.

Kenneth Bretz of Poland was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Carol Leslie of East Liverpool, daughter of Mr. Bretz, registered the 60 guests who attended the reception at the bride's home on E. Pershing St. following the ceremony.

The white covered refreshment table was made attractive with an arrangement of spring flowers and silver candelabra. Carnations encircled the tiered cake which was also centered with a bouquet of carnations.

Miss Carmen McNicol presided at the refreshment table. She was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Rex Reich, Mrs. Bland and Mrs. Florence Bailey.

The couple received many gifts and a telegram from T. Sgt. and Mrs. Donald Aldridge in Germany. Mrs. Aldridge is Mrs. Bretz' daughter, the former Airman Dorothy Miller.

'Down On The Farm' News of Meetings, Helpful Hints For Farmers

Tractor Club Convenes

Seventy attended the first meeting of the tractor maintenance and auto 4-H Club Monday evening at the Gause-Ritchey farm supply on Route 172 near Guilford.

Election of officers was held: Bob Gause, Hanoverton, president; David Gall, Hanoverton, vice president; Ihla Rae Barnes, Lisbon, secretary; reporter for tractor club James Elder, Salem RD; reporter for auto club, Ihla Rae Barnes. Larry Snyder of Salem was elected "sheriff."

Final date of enrollment will be Feb. 18, according to Donald Myers, assistant county extension agent. 4-H project books were distributed and enrollment cards were filled out.

Teachers for the classes are: Charles Gause, Frank Gall, Marion Moser of Hanoverton; Walter Coie, Lisbon; Philip Converse, Leetonia; James Skeels and William Alexander, Salem RD.

Next meeting will be held Nov. 11 at the same location.

Soils Meeting Speaker

Earl McMunn, editor of the Ohio Farmer, will speak at the annual meeting of the Mahoning County Soil Conservation District Monday evening Feb. 11, at 8 p.m. at Goshen Grange hall, Route 165-½ mile west of State Route 45.

McMunn is past president of the American Agricultural Editors Association and a member of the rural advisory committee of the federal civil defense administration.

During the summer of 1952 he traveled through Europe as a technical consultant in agricultural communications for the United States government.

There are three supervisors to be elected to fill the expiring terms of Dean Beardsley, Lloyd Burkhardt, and Guy Brown.

Good Cropping Practices

You get the most for your fertilizer dollar when you follow good crop production practices, an Ohio economist says.

R. H. Blosser, associate professor of agricultural economics and rural sociology, cites data based on Ohio experiments to show that the same amount of fertilizer gives higher corn yields with good crop production practices than with poor ones.

When best practices were used on average Ohio soils, he says, 800 pounds of fertilizer produced about 35 bushels more corn per acre than 200 pounds, but when poor methods were used the increase was only 20 bushels.

Good production practices included the best known ways of raising crops. Poor practices included the use of low-yielding varieties, late planting, not enough seed, soil depletion, rotations, poor drainage, erosion losses and inadequate applications of lime.

Tests further showed, Blosser points out, that 800 pounds of fertilizer to the acre added about $35 more to profits than 200 pounds when good practices were used. But with poor production practices this same amount of fertilizer increased net profits only $15.

Although additional fertilizer may give some increase in yields, there is a point beyond which more fertilizer will not pay for itself, Blosser explains. Before you can determine the most profitable rate of fertilizer to use, you must know the probable yields from various amounts, up to the point where additional applications produce no increase in crop yields. Then, the economist says, by calculating the value of the increased yield, the cost of producing it and possible returns from investing limited capital elsewhere, you can determine the most profitable rate.

"Band Seeding" Method

The new band seeding method for legume-grass crops can help farmers get maximum returns from every dollar spent for fertilizer, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Band seeding," says the committee, "puts every seed directly above a band of fertilizer where it will be able to take advantage of the plant food as soon as germination occurs."

"Each seedling can grow and develop in an area where the soil fertility is high."

"This new method is more efficient than conventional seeding practices where many seeds fall between the rows and are wasted because the young seedlings fail to survive since they can't reach the plant nutrients."

Tests in Ohio showed that band seeded legumes made a vigorous early start in spring and produced considerably more hay or forage than conventionally seeded fields.

A springfed farm pond constructed in the fall of 1955 by Daniel Saling of Wayne Township supplies his beef herd and poultry, provides fire protection for farm buildings and provides for swimming in summer and ice skating in the winter.

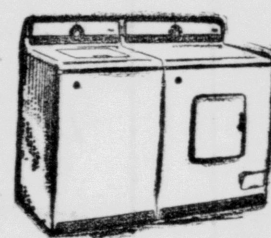

Saling has stocked the pond with a blue gill-bass combination and looks for good fishing next year.

The pond has a surface of three-tenths of an acre and was planned to provide livestock water. The water supports a beef herd of 24 or more animals and a flock of 1,000 chickens.

Since the pond is lower than the barn floor level, a suction pump operated with a quarter horsepower motor sends the water to the herd tank and to the poultry house automatic fountains on the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lowry Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Lowry and family of Youngstown visited Sunday at the home of George Pepperney and daughter of W. Wilson St. Mr. and Mrs. James Pepperney of Youngstown also were recent visitors at the Pepperney home here.

Merger Action Is Considered By AFL-CIO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders today considered steps to force mergers of still-feuding, separate state organizations in a windup of their 10-day winter meetings.

Only 20 states have so far completed merging rival AFL and CIO state organizations.

The parent federation has set a deadline for next December for the remaining states — those most heavily industrialized — and encouraged voluntary amalgamations instead of forced mergers after the deadline.

The powerful AFL-CIO Executive Council neared the end of a busy session which has been marked by an express determination to clean organized labor's ranks of corrupt influences.

Besides adopting strict new rules forbidding shady and dishonest union practices, the council Tuesday cracked down on three unions — the Laundry, Distillery and Allied Industrial Workers.

It ordered suspension and eventual expulsion of the unions within 90 days unless they toss out certain officers and adopt decency standards.

The three unions contend the council acted without evidence to hold them guilty of being "dominated, controlled and substantially influenced by corrupt influences."

However, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the unions knew the nature of the purges they had to conduct to avoid AFL-CIO ousters. Meany pledged that unless they fully complied with cleanup requirements, the unions would be booted out of the federation.

represent a very large increase in production. Fifteen million more tons of steel in the space of five years is a lot of steel.

There is also the possibility that the Soviet Union will be able to raise its rate of production increase — in the output of steel and electric power, for example — above that set for 1957. But the fact remains that the Kremlin has been compelled to lower its sights in the field of industrial development.

U.S. Reluctant On Sanctions

Such Action Against Israel Held 'Immoral'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States appeared reluctant today to consider applying sanctions to Israel even if that country does not withdraw its forces from all of Egypt.

Mention of the bare possibility of sanctions brought from Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) the quick comment that such action would be "immoral" and "insupportable" in the absence of similar moves against Russia.

This government is concentrating maximum pressure at the moment on getting Israel to comply unconditionally with United Nations demands for withdrawal.

Furthermore, Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference at which sanctions were discussed Tuesday, there is "good ground to hope" that Israel will withdraw its forces. He did not spell out the basis for such hope.

The question of sanctions arose because the Israelis have so far resisted U. N. demands to pull back their troops from two sections of Egypt which they still occupy. They have called for guarantees of access to the Gulf of Aqaba for their shipping and assurances that the Gaza Strip would not again be used as a base for Egyptian forays against Israel.

Dulles said under questioning that the United States "could only answer" the question of sanctions toward Israel in connection with some United Nations resolution on that subject. This country would not impose sanctions by itself, he said, but "if there was action by the United Nations calling for sanctions we would of course have to give them very serious consideration."

The key question is what position the United States would take in advance of a U. N. vote if sanctions were proposed in the United Nations. And on this point Dulles made no commitment whatever.

If the United States should come out in favor of sanctions, its position would have very great influence on what other nations did. If it opposed sanctions within the United Nations, it might succeed in blocking the resolution.

Jack Of All Duties

By HAL BOYLE

ANDROS, Bahamas (AP) — An American bureaucrat would shudder at the multiple duties of Stanley R. Darville, a political odd-job man in a warm climate.

Darville is one of 21 commissioners who handle government chores in some 2,000 Bahamas islands and cays ranging over 70,000 square miles of ocean.

He is one of three commissioners assigned to Andros, largest of the islands, and you can't be around here long without running into the chubby, smiling, 43-year-old official.

British colonial governments act on the same principle as the U. S. Army, "a trained officer can handle any job." If Darville wore a special hat for each of his jobs, he'd need at least 10 in his wardrobe.

When you land here, Darville as customs officer oversees the checking of your baggage. If you are caught smuggling in anything, he will (as police chief) have you arrested, and then (as magistrate) hear your case.

If you wreck your yacht on a reef, Darville has to open an inquiry within 24 hours as wreck investigator.

If your home should go up in flames, Darville will drop around as fire inspector to be sure you didn't touch a match to it to collect the insurance.

If you mail a letter, you'll find out Darville is also postmaster.

If you want to get married quickly in a civil ceremony, who says the binding words? Nobody but Darville.

If you die, Darville will issue the death certificate as coroner. If you are born here, Darville will register your birth.

If you want to settle here permanently, Darville will handle your application as immigration officer.

"We are the only government officials who don't wear a uniform," said Darville. "When you get down to it, what uniform could we wear?"

The commissioner is of old French-Scottish Bahamian stock that first came to these "sunshine isles of June" in the 17th century, not long after the Pilgrim fathers hit the beaches in Massachusetts. He is official shepherd for some 2,500 Bahamian natives dwelling in a tangled pine, mangrove and sweet margaret wilderness covering about 750 square miles. Most of the settlements can be reached by boat.

Although the Bahamas have had a long and violent past, replete with pirates and smugglers, the natives today are remarkably lawabiding.

"It isn't once a month I have to give a man a jail sentence," said Darville. "And in nine years as commissioner I've never had a murder case."

MYSTERY PATIENT? — A

New York newspaper reports that Lazar M. Kaganovich, deputy premier of the Soviet Union, was shot mysteriously in a Kremlin power struggle and is near death. Kaganovich, 64, is a hard-core Stalinist who wants to remove from power Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The report said something went wrong with an assassination attempt and he was critically wounded instead of being killed.

GETS PRISON TERM

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Phillip Hubacher, 50, of Rt. 1, Marietta drew 1-20 years in prison Tuesday when a common pleas court jury found him guilty of first-degree manslaughter in the knife-slashing Dec. 9 of Wayne Hearn, 39, also of Marietta. Judge Leonard Ogle pronounced sentence.

Atomic Submarine Matches Feats Of Verne's Nautilus

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—Jules Verne's mythical "twenty thousand leagues under the sea," became reality Monday night as the atomic submarine Nautilus named for Verne's imaginary ship, did it herself.

The Nautilus had gone 20,000 (sea) leagues—60,000 miles—in a myriad of Atlantic cruises under just about every imaginable condition except actual war.

It was 87 years after publication of Verne's book. The big submarine was 120 miles east of Atlantic City at 8:30 p.m., far below the surface of the ocean. Captain Eugene P. Wilkinson had been looking forward to the observance ever since he first put to sea from this port under nuclear power on Jan. 17, 1955.

The dozen newsmen aboard, were shepherded through the labyrinth of tunnels with their thousands of gauges, dials, and pipes that constitute the interior of the big ship.

The underwater speed remained "classified" as did the depth to which the Nautilus can safely plunge. But both were plenty and far more than ordinary subs.

Newsmen got a hand at steering the 67 million dollar monster. As they took the places of enlisted personnel—but always under the watchful eyes of Nautilus officers—down and brought her to within 10 feet of the surface in exercises that also demonstrated the Nautilus' ability almost to turn on a dime.

Early today as Wilkinson and his men neared this port came greetings from Mamie Doud Eisenhower who, on Jan. 42, 1954, christened the ship. Wired the President's wife, "Congratulations to the crew of my ship for your wonderful achievement."

Study Two Bills Asking Wage Hikes For State Employees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Finance Committee today launched the "careful study" of state employees' salaries promised several weeks ago by Gov. C. William O'Neill and legislative leaders.

Finance Committee Chairman J. Frank McClure called for hearing two bills proposing general pay increases for state employees.

It may be many weeks before any decision is reached.

The lawmakers must know with some certainty the condition of the state's finances before they say "yes" or "no." O'Neill's two-year budget still is more than two weeks off.

The "careful study" promise on pay raises for rank-and-file state employees came while the Legislature was pushing passage of a bill which increased salaries of department heads and members of key state boards and commissions.

Introduction of bills continued to hold the attention of lawmakers Tuesday as 24 more proposed laws were offered.

But there was one Senate skirmish, the first of the 1957 session, in which the Democrats served notice they will criticize the appointees of Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill whenever they have a mind to.

Said Minority Leader Joseph W. Bartunek:

"It is going to be our policy not to oppose appointments by the governor. We want to give the governor the men he feels he has confidence in.

"But we reserve the right to discuss the jobs these men are doing and we are going to be extremely critical.

"When we passed higher Cabinet salaries, we were told they were needed to attract capable people. . . .

The Senate unanimously confirmed five of Gov. O'Neill's appointees, but not before Gordon Jeffery of Toledo, highway safety director, got a spoofing from Sen. Frank King (D-Lucas).

King cited the fact Jeffery's $18,000-a-year state salary doubles his pay as Lucas County clerk of courts. The senator added, tongue in cheek:

"I support Mr. Jeffery because he has demonstrated ability as a businessman. Just before he left Toledo, he managed to clean up all his outstanding traffic tickets—$64 worth—with a payment of only $1."

Among the bills introduced Tuesday were measures to:

Reimpose the one-cent tax on sales 40 cents and below. The tax bracket was wiped out by the Legislature in 1948. It would reimpose the old tax except that the levy would start with 10-cent purchases rather than with 9-cent transactions. The sponsor, Rep. Harold L. Short (R-Miami), estimated the tax change would yield another nine million dollars a year in revenue.

Regular distribution of trading stamps under the state superintendent of banks with a deposit required to insure redemption.

Require annual or semi-annual inspection of motor vehicles at state-operated stations at $1.50 per inspection. Vehicles failing to pass inspection would be ruled off the highways.

Increase the cost of a three-year driver license to a total of $2.75—$2 for the license and 75 cents for the deputy registrar's fee. The license now costs $1—75 cents for the license and 25 cents for the fee.

Require vertical exhausts, eight inches above the top of the vehicle, on all diesel buses.

Increase the deputy registrar's fee for issuing auto licenses from 25 to 75 cents.

Provide uniform regulation of city income taxes, setting no ceiling on such taxes.

Require Ohio auto tags to bear the legend: "Home of Presidents."

Fix maximum penalties of $1,000 fine and a year in jail for cutting new treads on used auto tires. If an auto dealer was involved, it would cost him his license.

Exempt property passing to religious organizations from taxation.

Substitute a five-member state veterinary medical board for the present three-member board of veterinary examiners.

A constitutional amendment, proposed by Sen. Fred Hoffman (R-Hamilton) would give the Ohio Supreme Court authority to determine whether mental or physical disability prevents an elected state official from performing his duties. The proposal, which would be subject to a final vote of the people, is patterned after a federal-level suggestion of U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, Hoffman told newsmen.

The Senate Highway Committee recommended passage of a House-approved bill to abolish the state highway construction council. A Senate floor vote on the O'Neill-backed bill is probable Thursday.

It's Latin Versus English As State Motto Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A mountain, Thomas A. Edison, some wheat and a healthy respect for Latin are in a legislative hopper that may hold an official motto for Ohio.

Sen. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) wants to re-instate "Imperium in Imperio" ("An Empire within an Empire") as the motto. The Latin phrase was the state's motto for two years until it was repealed by legislative act in 1868.

A bill sponsored by Fess and backed by the Ohio American Legion would re-adopt "Imperium in Imperio."

And if that reflects on the federal government's authority, Fess told a Senate committee, then the committee might consider instead the motto "Light, Flight and Right."

"We are known as the state of light," Fess said, "because of Thomas A. Edison and of flight because of the Wright Brothers. And we are practically always right."

Sen. Stanley C. Mechem (R-Athens), Senate majority leader and a member of the committee, held out for the "imperium" rather than the "light" motto.

Not only has "imperium" been the state's unofficial motto for 89 years, he said, but a motto would "sound better if it is in Latin."

It occurred to Sen. Theodore Gray (R-Miami) that Fess' suggestion might mean changing the state seal with its reproduction of a sheaf of wheat and Mt. Logan near Chillicothe.

"I'd object to taking off the sheaf of wheat," said Sen. Clarence Krueger, (R-Erie) a farmer. "I'd object to taking off Mt. Logan," replied Fess. "That's my district."

DIES OF EXHAUST FUMES

CLEVELAND (AP)—A west side woman's death in her garaged automobile Tuesday night was blamed on exhaust fumes.

Police said Mrs. Florence Grosser, 45, apparently was overcome by the fumes while washing the car with the motor running and the garage door closed.

REAL COOL CUT — A "heat wave" — 35 degrees F. — gives Lt. Comdr. Conrad S. Shinn an opportunity to move his hair-cutting business outdoors at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica. Nicknamed the "flying barber," Shinn last October became the first man to land an aircraft at the South Pole. Getting the southern "most" in hair styling is correspondent Maurice Cutler. The men are in Antarctica with the group readying bases for use during the International Geophysical Year.

Panel Discussion Set On County Farming

Elden Groves of Salem will moderate the panel discussion on the subject, "What's Ahead in Agriculture in Columbiana County?" at a public meeting at United Local School Monday at 8 p.m.

Other panel members will be Donald Rupert, New Waterford; Robert Hammett, Lowellville; John Resek, Youngstown; Chester Roof, Salem; and Albert Agnew, Boardman.

The discussion will be preceded by a motion picture, "The Land of Promise," which will depict the probable industrial development in northeast Ohio as a result of the St. Lawrence Seaway. A talk on "Facts in the Agricultural Situation in Columbiana County" by Riley Dougan of the Ohio State University, also will be presented, according to Floyd Lower, county extension agent.

The program is sponsored by the Columbiana County Agricultural Council.

Quakers Crush Boardman 69-52 For 11th Season Victory

Mark Fenton Paces Locals

Salem Will Meet Sharpville Friday

By MARK MILLER

Bouncing out of their two-game losing streak Tuesday night, Salem won its 11th game of the season, crushing hapless Boardman 69-52 before about 1,100 fans at the local gymnasium.

A fine team effort was displayed by the Quakers who outplayed their taller opponents all the way. Coach John Cabas employed his reserve strength midway in the final stanza to end the contest in effortless fashion.

The Spartans' Butch Anders on put on a classy display of clever ball handling, slick dribbling, and fancy passing, although his machine gun-type shooting wasn't too accurate. He could mesh the nets only on 6 of 28 field goal attempts.

IN THE FIRST QUARTER, after the two teams exchanged the lead twice, Salem pulled ahead to stay and was never headed again. Salem led 20-17 at the end of the period, and by intermission time, the locals had built a 36-32 lead.

In the third stanza Salem tallied 18 points while limiting the Spartans to four to make the score 54-37.

Each team made 22 goals, but the Quakers netted 25 of 31 fouls from the free gift lane compared to the opposition's meager 8 for 20. The Quakers showed marked improvement at the foul line.

From the field the Red and Black took 52 shots for a 42.3 percentage, and from the charity circle they scored 80 per cent of their shots.

The visitors made 76 field goal attempts and recorded a low 28.9 percentage, and they scored 40 per cent of their shots from the foul line.

MARK FENTON paced the Red and Black attack. He made five baskets and eight fouls for 18 markers. He played an excellent defensive game and pulled down 10 rebounds.

Playing one of his better ball games of the season, Big Bill Pauline, who was charged with only one personal foul during the game, tallied one basket and seven free throws for nine points. He pulled down 15 rebounds.

John Stephenson's five baskets and six fouls contributed to the scoring parade with 16 markers. Jim Meissner, hitting from the outside with his accurate set shots, scored six baskets for 12 points, and his defensive play was sharp.

Ted Jackson scored most of his points in and around the pivot slot, hitting the nets for four baskets and four free throws for 12 markers.

DARRYL ADAMS rounded out the Quakers' scoring with two markers.

Anderson shot from every angle on the floor and his six baskets and seven fouls gave him scoring honors for the evening with 19 markers.

Teammate Bill Gaskeen hit on seven baskets and one foul shot for 15 points for the losers. Six-foot, six-inch Bill Schaffer also scored in the double figures, with five field goals for 10 markers.

Boardman's season record now stands at 12 victories and three losses, and the Quakers are 11 and three on the season.

Officials for last night's encounter were Jack Cramb and Matthew Wansack.

Salem's next game will be at Sharpville, Pa., Friday night.

Big 10, PCC Reach Rose Bowl Accord

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Big Ten has formally ratified an agreement with the Pacific Coast Conference to indefinitely continue their post-season football games in the Rose Bowl.

Victor O. Schmidt, PCC commissioner, announced the formal signing of the pact Tuesday. Some of the agreements, in negotiation and discussion for months, had not been formalized, Schmidt said. The Western and Pacific Coast conferences previously had announced, however, that they had reached agreement on a plan to continue their athletic relationships.

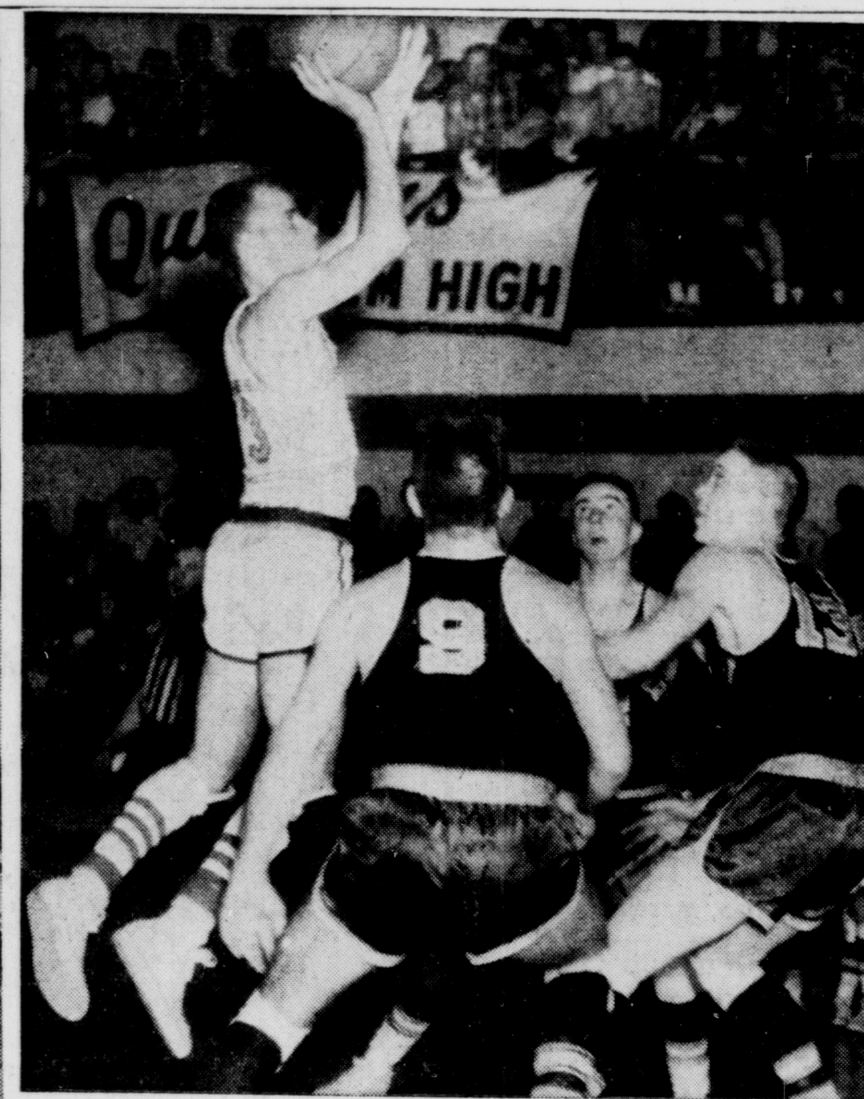

No party to the contract may cancel without two year's notice. Any further vote by either conference will be on the question of terminating the pact, instead of periodic election by the schools to decide the question of renewal. The post season games started in 1947.

The contract also includes the National Broadcasting Co., which holds exclusive radio and television rights.

The hapless Ashland Eagles, who have yet to win their first game, bowed to Cedarville 88-63 in a Mid-Ohio League game at the Yellow Jackets' home court.

It was the 12th straight loss for Ashland.

Philadelphia Warriors' Chances Are Boosted

By The Associated Press
Each of the three games played in the National Basketball Assn., Tuesday night boosted the playoff chances of the Philadelphia Warriors.

Paul Arizin turned in another of his 30-plus scoring stints to lead the Warriors, to a fourth-period drive at St. Louis that whipped the Hawks 101-87.

And in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, the Boston Celtics and Rochester Royals combined to pad the Warriors' hold on second place in the league's eastern division. The Celtics opened with a 105-101 triumph over the Syracuse Nats, and the Royals followed it up with a 91-88 defeat of the New York Knicks.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. L. LIDE

Charlie Gesaman and Jerry Manz are both fish management agents for the Ohio Division of Wildlife in this district. In their spare time they go ice fishing.

These men have fished all the lakes in this district, not only for the love of fishing but in order to provide information for the rest of the anglers.

Recently they tried Beaver Lake near Columbiana. Seeing most of the fishermen gathered out in the center of the lake they decided to try nearer the shore.

Charlie prepared the hole in the ice while Jerry knocked out a hole about ten feet away. Immediately Charlie began catching some of those 8 inch bluegills while Jerry was landing nice size perch.

One of the men saw how they were catching fish and soon the crowd gathered around the same spot. They called it a day for two reasons, they had all the fish they wanted including a 2½ pound bass and too many people in one spot on the ice is not the safest thing.

Anyone interested in ice fishing can contact Ross Sheeley, the caretaker of Beaver Lake. Bring your own bait. You can reach this place by going north on Route 7 from the intersection of 7 and 14 and turn right on the first road and you will see his home about 100 yards down the drive in.

AT AQUILLA LAKE Charlie said they were having no luck with the bluegills at all and couldn't figure it out. They switched to minnows and almost immediately landed a large northern. That explained it, the northern pike were on the prowl, and pan fish give them a wide berth. They landed several of them and called it off. Ice fishing is fun but don't forget to use caution and make sure the ice is safe.

We game protectors are supposed to test the ice every Friday and report conditions to our district office. One game protector reminded the boss that "if I test the ice on Friday and you don't hear from me the next day you will know where I am."

THIS HAS BEEN the best possible weather for fox hunting and actually a hunter who enjoys this sport has it all over the other hunters because there is no closed season.

The pelts have little value. However, a good foxhound still costs plenty of money because this is still the "sport of the kings."

All hunters do not go afield expecting food for the table or in search of valuable pelts. The thrilling chase is the payoff whether or not a kill is made.

Many hunters who locate a smart, wide running fox, prefer not to kill him; instead, just sit back, listen to the hounds and brew a pot of coffee while doing so.

The most that can be said about groundhog day is it is a delightful hoax. Check the holes or dens right now and you will see they are removing some of the debris that accumulates in the winter and you will also note they travel from one hole to the other and leave their muddy tracks in the snow to prove it. To the woodchuck, right now it is "love in bloom."

Salem Hunting Club To Meet Thursday

The February meeting of the Salem Hunting Club will be held at the club Thursday evening at 8.

The agenda will include forthcoming club activities and business matters. Movies will be shown, and a venison lunch served.

All members are urged to attend.

Mississippi basketball captain Joe Gibbon scored on 29 out of 32 free throws this season in games against Alabama and Auburn.

First baseman - outfielder Roy Sievers set a Washington record when he hit 29 home runs for the Senators.

N. Carolina Wins In Overtime

Southern Methodist Easily Beats Baylor

By PETE PEDERSEN
The Associated Press

Life among college basketball's upper crust gets more precarious as the season approaches its end.

Building pressure and ambitious underdogs combine to threaten the proud records of the nation's elite.

Monday night it was Iowa State, No. 9 in the Associated Press weekly poll, panting past Colorado 72-71 in a last-gasp thriller. Tuesday night top-ranked North Carolina grayed Coach Frank McGuire's locks before upending Maryland in double overtime 65-61 for their 17th straight.

The pressure was lighter elsewhere. Fourth-rated Southern Methodist subdued Baylor 83-76 to remain atop the Southwest Conference. Seattle, No. 7, had a breeze beating Seattle Pacific 106-72.

Lennie Rosenbluth scored eight of the Tar Heels' 12 points in the two overtime periods for a night's total of 25 points. But it was Tommy Kearns who earned clutch honors. He tied the regulation game at 53-all and sank the basket which put the Tar Heels ahead 63-61 with 3:12 to go in the last overtime.

Southern Methodist could thank Jim Krebs for its 16th victory in 18 games. Krebs, playing despite injured ankles, netted 24 points as the Mustangs stopped the fired-up Bears with effective outside shooting and free-throw line accuracy.

Duke beat the Pitt Panthers 90-72. Bobby Joe Harris and Jim Newcome were the principal factors in Pitt's downfall. Newcome scored 20 points, Harris, 16.

In conference battles, North Carolina State had little trouble frowning Virginia 87-60, and Idaho State, No. 20, trampled Colorado Mines in driving toward its sixth successive Rocky Mountain Conference title.

Howdy Cope was the high scorer for Fairfield with 26 points. Chuck Miner was next with 19.

The Warren reserves also won their contest, 41-39.

Fairfield will play the opening game in the Class A tournament against United School Feb. 19 at United School.

Giardello Rated 2-1 Favorite Over Sandy

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Al Weill, the sage of socks, says Sandy is made to order for Joey Giardello in their 10-round middleweight scrap tonight.

The man who guided Rocky Marciano to the heavyweight crown says Sandy is too much of a standup fighter.

"Giardello just loves to battle those standup guys," said Weill. "Anyone who stands up to fight Joey is going to get belted real good, just ask Bobby Boyd."

Giardello put Boyd on the shell with a broken jaw and lacerated mouth when he hammered the No. 1 middleweight contender into a pulp at Cleveland for a fifth round kayo last Sept. 28. That fight shot Joey back into the middleweight picture, and he meets Sandy as the No. 2 rated contender.

Giardello is a better than 2-1 favorite. By winning he can make a big stride toward getting a title crack, probably in June.

The winner is to meet the victor of the Spider Webb-Neal Rivers Feb. 15 fight, with that winner progressing to a championship match with either Gene Fullmer or Ray Robinson in early summer.

Giardello, 26, has a 63-13-5 record.

Sandy, 24, has won 8 of 18 fights by knockouts, has been defeated 4 times and fought to 1 draw.

ABC will broadcast and telecast at 9 p.m., CST.

Miami Beach, Fla. — Larry Boardman, 140, Marlborough, Conn. outpointed Ray Portilla, 141, Houston, 10.

Goshen Scores Win Over N. Waterford

The defeat was New Waterford's sixth against 12 wins. Goshen has a 14-3 record for the season.

The contest was closely fought all the way. Goshen assumed a 17-16 lead by the end of the first quarter, but New Waterford passed the Gophers 37-35 by intermission.

At the three-quarter mark Goshen was again in the lead 52-48.

Roger Wyss paced the Gopher attack with 19 points. Wayne Walter netted 18 and Bob Stallsmith, 16 for the winners.

Dewayne Brown led the losers with 18 points. Al Rupert was next with 17 markers.

The contest was the final one of the regular season for New Waterford. Goshen has one more game on its schedule.

The Goshen reserves also won the preliminary contest 48-20.

Quaker Reserves Roll Over Boardman Spartans 80-59

By BOB JULIAN

The fighting Salem High School junior varsity quintet smashed the Boardman Spartan reserves 80-59 last night on the Quaker floor for its 12th win in 14 tilts.

Boardman suffered its fifth defeat in 13 outings.

Coach Karl Zellers' Quakers put on another spectacular show from the free throw line. They netted 70 per cent of their shots, dropping in 26 of 37 attempts.

TH ESPARTANS ALSO were hitting from the foul stripe. They meshed 56 per cent of their attempts, connecting on 17 of 30.

Boardman shot an even 50 per cent in the first 16 minutes, netting six to 12 shots.

To start the contest the Spartans rolled to a 4-0 advantage before the Quakers tallied a marker. Lou Slaby chalked up the first Red and Black score to cut the deficit to 4-2, then John Sturgeon hit on a two-pointer to put the Zellersmen in the lead 5-4 with five and a half minutes remaining in the period.

Boardman took the lead for the last time as Wright dumped in two foul shots to move into a 6-5 margin. Darryl Adams then put the Quakers in command 7-6 and the onslaught of the Salemites continued unabated.

SALEM NETTED 24 markers in the frame while limiting the Spartans to 14.

In the second canto Slagle of Boardman cut the margin to 24-16 with a basket, but from this point on the Quakers, paced by Deitch, Adams, Platt and Sturgeon, raced to a 38-16 advantage to break the ball game wide open.

Salem tallied 28 markers in the stanza while the Spartans added 10, and the locals held a commanding 52-24 advantage at intermission.

Platt and Adams led the free-scoring frame as they each tallied four baskets on beautiful jump shots. Platt also displayed a two-handed set shot which swished the nets on several occasions.

IN THE THIRD PERIOD, Parshall hit for four points and Faulf for one to cut Salem's lead to 52-29. The rest of the quarter saw both teams trade baskets, with the Spartans outscoring the Quakers 16-14, but the Salemites still maintained a 66-38 lead with eight minutes remaining in the game. Parshall paced the Boardman team by collecting 10 of his team's 16 tallies before fouling out late in the frame.

Both coaches substituted freely throughout the final stanza. Boardman outscored the locals 19-14 but the Quakers easily coasted to their 12th victory.

FOUR MEN HIT in the double figure column again for the locals. Adams, Platt, Deitch and Sturgeon drilled in 19, 18, 17 and 12 markers, respectively.

Parshall and Wright paced the Boardman Spartans with 18 and 17 points, respectively.

In the rebounding department big John Sturgeon hauled down 15 of the 43 points netted by the locals, while Phillips pulled down the same number out of Boardman's total of 42.

The Quakers tried 61 field goal attempts and connected on 27 for an average of 44. The Spartans, however, hit on only 25 per cent of their shots, dropping in 21 of 83 tries.

James Rupert Receives Detwiler Award

Columbiana Rotary Names Most Outstanding Scout

COLUMBIANA — James Rupert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rupert of 121 N. West St., was the recipient Monday evening of the annual Detwiler Award, given by the Rotary Club to the most outstanding Boy Scout of the year in Columbiana and Fairfield Township in memory of Theodore Detwiler, Columbiana soldier who gave his life in World War II.

The award was presented by Rotary Past President H. W. Johnson at a joint dinner meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs at Joshua Dixon School. Rupert, a sophomore in Columbiana High School, is a member of Troop 18, sponsored by Firestone American Legion Post, Robert Antram, scoutmaster.

Blaine Thompson, assistant manager of the Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Co., was master of ceremonies for the program accompanying the award following dinner served for about 200 by the music committee of the Parent-Teacher Organization.

Ross Ludwig of Lisbon, Columbiana scout executive who spoke, said there are 960 adult workers in the Columbiana County Boy Scout Council, and a cub scouting picture, "A Letter to Loretta," starring Loretta Young, was shown.

COUNTY SCOUT officials introduced were: John Piney, Chester, W. Va., president, the Columbiana County Council embracing territory on the West Virginia side of the Ohio river; Eugene Hall, East Liverpool, vice president; Francis Lang, East Liverpool, past president and commissioner; A. P. Schmauch, Salem, and Willard Ferrall, Columbiana, chairman and vice chairman for the northern district of Columbiana county, and William E. Adkins of Lisbon, field executive for the northern district. Gay Zellers of Columbiana, neighborhood executive, led the scouts in their oath.

For the Kiwanis Club, Mark Klingensmith, program chairman for the annual father and son banquet of the club in the Washingtonville Methodist Church at 6:30 p.m. next Monday, announced that Leo Murphy, trainer of the Cleveland Browns, will be the speaker.

John Elder, Rotary chairman for 6:30 p.m. next Monday at Valley Golf, announced an international service program with two Rotary exchange students from Syria, enrolled at Geneva College, Beaver Falls, as guests.

President D. W. Bailey of the Rotary Club, which sponsors in Columbiana the annual "March of Dimes" announced at the scout dinner Monday evening that the drive closed with $3,585 collected, $585 over the $3,000 quota. Five local doctors gave one-third of the amount. John H. Heintzelman Sr., was the Rotary chairman of the drive.

Columbiana Ministerial Association, at its February meeting, Monday in the office of its chairman, Rev. Donald J. Voelm of Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church, set up a schedule of community Thursday evening pre-Easter services to begin March 7 and conclude April 11, preceding Holy Week. The Good Friday service will be held in Grace church during the noon hour April 19, the speaker to be announced.

"Words From the Cross" will be the theme of the Thursday evening meetings, dates, churches and speakers of which will be: March 7, Christian church, the Rev. J. Lloyd Nedrow of Zion Hill Church of the Brethren; March 14, Methodist Church, the Rev. H. J. Scheidtmann of the Presbyterian Church; March 21, Church of the Brethren, the Rev. Donald J. Voelm of Grace Church; March 28, Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Lonnie Baltz of the Church of the Nazarene; April 4, Grace church, the Rev. W. S. Longworth of the Methodist Church; April 11, Church of the Nazarene, the Rev. F. O. Lillie of the Christian Church.

ABOUT 225 YOUNG people from the churches of Lisbon, Leetonia and Columbiana attended an interdenominational youth rally in St. Jacob's Evangelical and Reformed Church, R. D. Lisbon, Sunday evening. The theme was "Consider Your Call," and young people were challenged to give serious thought to their future vocations. The Rev. E. D. Fager of the host church gave the invocation, and Mrs. Delmar Sittler presented various vocations with the Christian service motive in each. A doctor, nurse, business man, teacher, judge, social worker, farmer, housewife, and minister were presented to the group.

The rally included recreation, a fellowship song period, and "buzz" sessions on the theme. Refreshments were served following the worship service. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cook were in charge of arrangements, assisted by the youth advisors and youth officers of St. Jacob's church.

Officers of Grace Evangelical and Reformed church organized Monday evening for the year. The Rev. Donald J. Voelm, pastor, is automatically president. Other officers are: James Sittler, vice president; Leo Holloway, secretary; E. P. Funkhouser, treasurer; Mrs. Pearl Byers, financial secretary; Wilbur Weber, representative on the board of Christian education.

Members of West Farmington, East Palestine and Washingtonville lodges were guests of Columbiana Lodge No. 438, Knights of Pythias in a county meeting Thursday evening.
